VOLUME III. NUMBER 7 WAINWRIGHT, ALBERTA, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1910 NORMAN. E. COOK, MANAGE

Imperial Oil Co. Must Respect Town Ordinances.

The Warehouse now being constructed by Imperial Oil Co. against the provisions of Village ordinances. Mr. L. P. Hussey submits petition--Second Avenue, East, to have Proper Sidewalks--Line of Levels will be Run for Drainage Purposes--Outstanding Accounts Ordered Paid.

The regular meeting of the Town Council was held on Tuesday evening last, with four of the town fathers present, Coun. Musson and Mills being absent from the town.

Secretary Fieldhouse submitted a report, advising the Mayor and council regarding Municipal Ordinances, governing the prevention of fires. The report stated that until such time as the town passed bylaws, under new ordinances, the provisions of the Village Act would remain in force. This Act states and provides that no person shall keep on their premises any explosive in larger quantities than twenty-five pounds, unless it is stored at least one hundred feet from any building. Gasoline, being ranked in the class of common explosives, would necessarily be included in such provisions. Another section of the same Act provides that no quantity of kerosene, larger than five barrels, shall be stored on any premises, unless it be placed at least sixty feet from any building. These provisions would also refer to the oil-house, at present being constructed by the Imperial Oil Co. adjacent to the Grand Trunk tracks. According to this Village Ordinance, the construction of the warehouse is against the provisions of the Act and in order for the Oil Co. to construct a warehouse for the storing of oil, the old by-law, governing explosives, must either be changed or a new law passed that would give them the privilege of building such a warehouse.

After the report on the Village Ordinance had been made, it was moved by Coun. Coon, and seconded by Coun. Crawford, that the Secretary be instructed to notify the Imperial Oil Co. that in building an oil-house, the provisions of the Village Act, governing such, must be complied with and further if the Oil Co. intend storing oil within the town limits, plans and specifications would need to be submitted to the council for their approval. The motion passed after some discussion.

A letter from L. P. Hussey, proprietor of the Park Hotel, was read by the Secretary, in reference to the hotel cess pool. The petition from Mr. Hussey stated that, in the construction of the hotel, a considerable sum of money had been expended in plumbing and sanitary contrivances, in order to preserve sanitary conditions around the hotel. For the last year, the cess pool of the hotel has been emptied by the scavenger at an expense of $1.00 per load. In his contract made with the Village Council, the scavenger was not to be paid for the emptying of cess pools. At that time there was but one cess pool in town, that being at the Park Hotel. The scavenger had told Mr. Hussey that he was kept busy removing refuse from the Wainwright Hotel and other such places, for the salary given him and on his account, Mr. Hussey stated that he could not hire the scavenger to empty his cess pool until the other town work was done. Mr. Hussey thought that this was unreasonable and unfair that under such conditions he should be compelled to pay for the removal of refuse from his hotel and further to be compelled to wait until others had been served. Mr. Hussey stated that in other towns, cess pools were emptied by the scavenger at the expense of the town, with no extra charge to the rate-payer.

It was moved by Coun. Coon, seconded by Coun. Crawford, that the petition of Mr. Hussey be referred to the Health, Parks and Cemeteries Committee for consideration, the report to be made at the next council meeting.

Secretary Fieldhouse read a letter from a Winnipeg, Chemical Engine Company, regarding the chemical engine purchased some time ago by the village council. The letter stated that several valuable changes had been made in the order that would cause better efficiency at a little greater cost. A motion was passed instructing the Secretary to write to the Engine Company requesting the test as per contract.

A motion was received and passed instructing the Public Works Committee to build a foot-walk on the south side of Second Avenue, east to the east side of the Alberta Boarding House and that the brush be cut on First Avenue, east of Main Street.

Sumptuous Game Dinner enjoyed by Large Attendance--After-Concert pronounced Success--Excellent Programme prepared by Choir.

The citizens of Wainwright enjoyed another game dinner on Monday evening last at the Methodist Church, when the ladies of the congregation served a splendid repast. Although the weather outside was rather backward, a large attendance was present.

No Place Like Wainwright.

Mr. Christianson, formerly of Heppner, Oregon arrived in town this week, from British Columbia.

Mr. Christianson has been ranching for the past twenty-five years and came to this country with the same intention. Since leaving Oregon he has travelled over the different sections of Alberta, before coming here and states that this part of Alberta is the most remarkable that he has yet seen. Mr. Christianson is greatly impressed with the future of Wainwright and its district, and has already driven out over the district to locate.

Further than being an experienced rancher, Mr. Christianson has done considerable contracting and until he locates definitely on a ranching section, will contract in the town.

FOR SALE--Two Great Dane dogs. Excellent house dogs six months old. Price, very reasonable. A. J. Vallie.

Fire Brigade Meeting.

Last evening a meeting of the Fire Brigade was held at which Thos. Bizon and V. E. Graham were elected as new members. Harry Laird, an old member, was reinstated on returning to town and placed in charge of the No. 2 Chemical Engine. Herb Crumpton was given charge of No. 1.

A full practice call was arranged for Friday at 3 p.m., when the entire brigade will report to a fire call, with both engines, hook and ladder and water wagon.

Mr. Richard Aykroyd returned this week, from Scotland, where he has been for the past year.

"Jimmy" McGill is carrying the smile that never wears off, on the birth of a baby son.

Will Build Battle River Bridge.

Members of the Board of Trade secure Bridge for Wainwright--Fabyan will also have one--A long expected necessity.

The effect of Mr. H. C. King, Coun. Cook and Mayor Pawling and other members of the Board of Trade, agitating the necessity of a bridge across the Battle River, has resulted in a promise for such, from the Provincial Government.

For something it was feared that the bridge at Fabyan would be the only one built but through the efforts of the Board of Trade, a bridge for Wainwright has also been secured. The bridge, according to a letter received by Mr. King, from Bramley Moore, M.P.P., will be built at the north of Section 12, Township 40, Range 7, running east to connect with the main road to Wainwright, about four miles north of town.

A bridge into Wainwright has been a long expected necessity, on account of so many farmers in the North country, having a desire to trade in Wainwright and with no bridge, as a crossing, they are compelled to go elsewhere.

Now that the bridge is to be built, the citizens and business men of town will be greatly benefited by its construction and the efforts, exerted by the members of the Board of Trade, ought surely to be appreciated.

What Does It All Mean?

One of the "Star" reporters experienced a rather mysterious interview at the local station last week, when walking along the platform, he was saluted by a man portly bearing and carrying a look of decent fortune. The interview resulted in a mysterious ending and when the train pulled out, a commotion was left for the reporter to crack.

Why the unknown one should address the reporter is as unknown as the stranger himself. On his approach, the gentleman stated in a rather nonchalant tone, "Well, this is Wainwright, that is being advertised so freely by the land companies of the west!" "Yes," replied the reporter, "this is the town that is known as the best between Edmonton and Saskatoon." The "mysterious one" then entered into an explanation of what he had heard of Wainwright, what others thought of it and how strange it was that it had not been heard from before. On being asked his name, the stranger stated that at the present time, he would not give it. "But," replied the reporter, "I should like to know your name so that our interview can be published." The only answer that came was a cry from the conductor of "all aboard" after which the "unknown one" replied, "in two weeks, not only myself but the whole town will know my name, when I return, this will be my journey's end and what I shall do will cause the people of your town to gaze in steadfast wonder." At this, he was on the train and a moment later was speeding in the direction of Edmonton, carrying his secret as well as his name.

The interview was a strange one and what was meant could not even be suggested. In any case that reporter will watch for all the happenings that develop during the next two weeks.

Kaid Belton Led Veterans.

Noted Veterans of Empire's wars Marched in Winnipeg. With Kaid Belton at their Head--Well Known in Wainwright and Vicinity.

On Sunday last, the Veterans Brigade of Winnipeg marched in a body to Grace Church, with Kaid Belton at their head. Besides General Belton, several other prominent veterans marched also.

The parade was accompanied by brass and hugh bands and proceeded to Grace Church where a special service for the veterans was given. Before marching to the church each member of the brigade was presented with a Nelson Trafalgar Medal, the gift of Lord Strathcona.

Kaid Belton addressed the veterans on Monday evening, after which a grand camp fire and bivouac was held. Belton, who is well known to the citizens of Wainwright, was the leader, who with 67000 men, placed the present Sultan of Morocco on his throne. He is at present studying railroad construction along the line of the Grand Trunk Pacific and is intently returning to Morocco to put his railroad knowledge into practice, there. General Belton has been in Wainwright several times during the past few months and while here made numerous friends.

News from the Railway Boys.

Mr. W. W. Yeager left Wainwright on Monday for Edmonton to take charge there.

During his stay which extended over the last eleven months Mr. Yeager made many friends all of whom will be very sorry to hear of his departure.

Whether his new position is permanent or not he is unable to say, however in the event of it being so, a suitable presentation is the wish of all the men under his charge at Wainwright station, this will be duly forwarded Mr. Yeager.

His departure will be greatly regretted by many in town, especially those who were interested in the Young Men's Club which was about to be formed and in which he was greatly interested, no doubt had he been left here, he would have brought to a successful ending.

Both railroaders and citizens wish Mr. Yeager every success and prosperity in his new position.

Mr. A. J. Bell arrived here on Saturday to relieve Mr. Yeager. Mr. Bell being one of the Pioneer of the Grand Trunk Pacific, his popularity and success are insured. Welcome to Mr. Bell.

The work on the Tofteld Branch having been for the time finished, the engines and their crews returned last Friday and Saturday. The look of hard work was imprinted on both engines and men but wait till the joy-wagon arrives.

The hearty congratulations of all roundhouse boys are extended to Mr. and Mrs. McGill.

E. C. Reynolds made his first trip with his hand on the throttle, on the right hand side and made a record trip--more luck Ernie.

Mrs. R. A. Snyder, who has been ill for the past two weeks with typhoid fever is considerably improved.

Wainwright District May Enjoy Mono-Rail Car System.

The Canadian Mon-Rail Car Corporation of Montreal are considering installing a System of Freight and Passenger Traffic in Wainwright District--System Adapted to Western Conditions--Board of Trade Advise such a Scheme--May Establish Manufacturing Plant Here.

A new enterprise is on foot, which, if it develops will enable the farmers of the surrounding districts to enjoy railway facilities into our town.

The Canadian Mono-Rail Car Corporation has written the Secretary of the Board of Trade inquiring into the feasibility and needs of such a system. They state that their mode of transportation is especially adapted to Western conditions and prairie traffic, and could be advantageously used by the surrounding farmers, if the district was sufficiently settled to warrant such a venture.

The company is intending establishing a manufacturing plant, somewhere in this portion of the province and in writing the Board of Trade, inquire whether the demand would warrant a mono-rail system, here within a radius of fifty or sixty miles. They state that this transportation scheme is one that can be and is used for passenger as well as freight traffic.

Advice has been forwarded by the Board of Trade, recommending that the suggestion be considered, as the rich sections of the Wainwright District, containing many farmers, ranchers and various classes of settlers, are well now able to support such an enterprise and with the steady growth that the country has experienced during the last year, the prospects for the immediate future, are exceptionally bright. Various enquiries have been made by a number of the citizens, concerning the scheme and object, but no information, further than that received by Secretary King, can be obtained.

If the proposition seems advisable by the Canadian Mono-Rail Co., developments will follow immediately.

Secretary King strongly advised the installation of a manufacturing plant at this point, on account of the district and town having so many advantages.

Buffalo Hunt Postponed.

The chief game warden of Manitoba, who has forbidden the buffalo hunt at the Elkhead Reservation to take place.

The private car was to leave Edmonton today, but on account of the hitch in the arrangements, the time of starting has been postponed. The car, slated for the hunters, will, in all probability, leave Edmonton during the early part of the coming week, when full arrangements are expected to be concluded. Legal advice, concerning the order of the game warden, is being obtained and there is hardly any doubt but what the hunt will take place soon.

Mayor Pawling and M. L. Foster were intending to start for Fabio's ranch yesterday, but on receipt of the above information from Howard Douglas, will be delayed in starting for the Reservation.

The Americans have been sore over since the buffalo deal was put through and now that they are barred from partaking in the last buffalo hunt on the continent, they are annoyed at the idea of Canadians being favoured only.

Complaints are being made by certain citizens because of several railroad men discharging rifles in the direction of Second Avenue and Main Street.

An interesting and instructive paper, from Mr. Richard Aykroyd, will be published next week in our columns, describing a part of the trip through Scotland, made by Mr. Aykroyd.

Monday was observed as a holiday by all in the roundhouse except Joe he never sleeps, he works when others don't.

Davy Davidson had a bad fall from an engine in the wee sma' hours of a night last week and suffered a rather severe injury to his back but we are glad to say he is at duty again.

Slow Mail Delivery.

Letter Was 23 Years in Transit--Romance Turned to Tragedy.

Grand Junction, Col., Oct. 30--Romance turned to tragedy marked the delivery of a letter here yesterday to C. A. Roselle from Miss Ellen Gustafson, after it had been in transit over twenty-three years. In the meantime Miss Gustafson became Mrs. Oscar Peterson of Chicago, and Roselle tried to forget the love of his youth. He never married.

Twenty years ago Ellen Gustafson, of Fortsum, Sweden, the fiancée of Roselle, started for America. She was to write him as soon as she arrived. Roselle grew into middle age waiting for the letter. A few months ago he encountered Mr. and Mrs. Peterson in Chicago, but no one enquired or exclaimed about the letter which should have been written and received, but never came. The letter gives Roselle Miss Gustafson's address, and urges him to come to her at once. It was yellow with age, and many of the postmarks on its face had turned brown. It was forwarded to Roselle by a brother-in-law living at Rockford, Ill.

Who Are Guilty.

It is mighty mean to patronize a merchant who will trust you until you get so far in debt to him that you are ashamed to see him, and then go and spend your cash somewhere else where you would not get credit; but there are people who do it. The honorable way would be to spend your cash with the merchant who trusted you, even if you never expected to square up the old account.

DON'T BEER

Without a doubt there are many people in this little town of Wainwright, who take no interest whatever in the "local rag" and whenever it appears it is either knocked in some way or other or else it is stated that the management knows nothing anyway. This latter is no doubt the case, we cannot all know everything or some of us would have no particle of matter that could be called even one of the ingredients of what men call brains. But aside from that, we can express our opinion, without fear of utter destruction from these "wise guys" and the "know alls."

Some will not even give our infant paper a fair show, it is criticised no doubt, for appearing but once a week and when it is scattered over the community, these so called "wise guys" will say there is nothing in it worth reading, so what is the use of patronizing it? That is where Mr. "Knowall" performs the greatest piece of injustice that could be handed out to anyone. They don't realize that the newspaper, that is such an inferior thing to them, is read by men and women who have more brains and common sense than they. They were born with or will ever have granted them. As soon as anything is said that doesn't suit, the management is criticised, cursed, damned and the infernal paper along with them. That is surely a mean part to play, when the paper is endeavoring to serve the needs of all and assist the general progress. One of these would be advisors will hinder not only the onward tramp of our local press but also show the public at large just what curses they are to their own community and how cheap their ticket-of-leave from the country would be. Such men as these, the country don't want, don't need and what's more, the country will not have and the sooner the dirty principles are expressed back to their former residence, the sooner the qualities of such men will be cleared of a filth that pollutes any modern people and especially the western race, that he is no sample of.

RE-NEWS ITEMS

News items are always gladly received at the Star office, when those items are accompanied with the name and signed by the correspondent.

Last week two local letters were received from an unknown source, containing matter intended for publication in the columns of the Star. The writer from all appearances desired the contents of his letter to appear in our local weekly. The items, received, were of a different tone than is generally printed in the newspapers of today, in fact they were better suited for some such papers as the "Eyeopener" or "Free Speech" and after these letters are not published, the party, who mailed them, criticizes the management for not publishing what was sent for that purpose. But the person who mailed those items was wise enough not to come to the Star with any complaints, for he, no doubt, feels in his conscience that he would rather not have his name made known to anyone.

These items, received, were of an unseemly nature, not fit for conversation even among the lowest of the inferior minded, and still, some wonder why they were not published. If those items were published in the columns of this paper, the management would assuredly be branded in the eyes of public justice and their reputation dragged into the mire, with that of journals which delight in printing such reading matter.

In small towns, such as Wainwright, it is generally the case that gossip and unnecessary talk, concerning others, is published freely and in some cases to the extreme. But Wainwright has heretofore seemed different from small towns of this kind. Everyone has always appeared to have a good and kindly word to say for his neighbor and fellow citizen. Someone in your town is now seeking to bury that good reputation and place it on a pile with towns where everyone is talking about everybody else.

The management states again that any news items, of interest to the town and locality, will be thankfully received and appreciated, providing the items are signed by the correspondent. But matter of a low and filthy nature, expressing a private grudge or the declamation of a respectable citizen, that material is not sought after and certainly will not receive publication.

Washing and Ironing Goods

the waist in a towel and pound until the dampness is evenly distributed. Then iron it as quickly as possible. Never iron lace until it is washed, or pin it smooth on a board and leave it to dry. Wash lace in a half a pound of white curd soap, shredded into a pint of hot water, boiled till dissolved and left to cool. A handful of this jelly in a bowl of hot water will clean a great deal of lace.

Narrow laces should be washed over a bottle by the following method: Cover a bottle with a flannel, wind the lace evenly about it and sew a piece of thin muslin over it. Fill the bottle with hot water, place in a pan of boiling water to which has been added some of the soap jelly just mentioned and boil for ten minutes. Then take off the muslin and hold the lace under running water until all the soap is washed out of it.

If the lace must be dropped—though it is distinctly not advisable—to do so on the wrong side, not too hot, with thin muslin over it. If it requires starching, leave it on the bottle after the soap has gone out. Make a good starch, add to it a small bit of white wax and two or three lumps of loaf sugar; put the lace bottle into this till it is soaked into it; remove the bottle and squeeze the starch out gently; fill the bottle with lukewarm water and leave till nearly dry; then unroll the lace.

Very fine laces should be put with soap and water into a Mason jar and left to stand in the sun until dry. There should be no lid on the jar.

In ironing these fine garments, iron always with the thread parallel to the selvedge, or the goods will be baggy. To iron handkerchiefs, fold and wring wet; then soak them in lukewarm water, leave for a time and iron while damp. Do not starch any but lace handkerchiefs; it rots them.

Iron embroidered goods very hard on the wrong side over a double-thick blanket. If you are the proud possessor of a polishing iron, use it hard after the fashion.

Roll of Silk Rept in Towel and Round

NO MATTER how careful the washerwoman or the laundry, whichever of the modern pests our eyes are now inclined to turn to, there are some things we all know that other hands than our own. Like the ladies of the olden time, to whom their servants brought in the fine china in the morning, that they might wash it with their own white hands, we must often turn to the laundress for a bit of lace or a silk waist or a delicate fabric or embroidery.

It is quite easy for even the girl who lives in one room to do this bit of washing; mirrors were made to dry lace handkerchiefs on, and it is easy to take a string from window to window on which to hang the silk stockings worn at the dance the night before. If she is fortunate enough to own an electric iron—or, at the very least, a little shirtwaist iron and a doll's washboard, a generous basin and plenty of soap and water are all the washing equipment she needs.

A set of irons is an acquisition, however—different sizes for different parts of the shirtwaist. They give a tailored, well-laundered appearance that the well-meaning but too large iron can never bestow.

The general principles of washing are, of course, known to every one: little rubbing or wringing will be needed for this work, for in general it includes only the finer and more delicate materials. A few hints on special fabrics, however, will not come amiss.

Linen should never be allowed to dry in the air; it should be ironed when wet, and should continue to be ironed until it is dry. It will then never shrink.

wrinkle or fade, the three disadvantages about washing it, and the reason for its being included in our home laundering.

To wash cretonnes and other printed goods of the same texture, boil a pound of rice in a gallon of water until it is soft; let it stand until just warm, and use it like soap until the cretonne is clean. Boil another pound of rice in another gallon of water, as before; take the rice from the water (but keep the latter) and put it into clean warm water. Into this throw the garments from the first rice water, and wash here again until perfectly clean. Shake out and put it in the clean water in which the second pound of rice was boiled, and rinse well; this will do instead of starching. Hang to dry in the shade, and iron on the wrong side while still slightly damp.

For crepe de chine, crepon, white silk and similar fabrics, make a strong lather with white soap and boiling water, let it cool, add a few drops of ammonia and quickly and gently wash the silk in it. Throw it then into cold hard water with a little salt in it, rinse it quickly, and hang to dry. If required to be stiff, it must be rinsed in a little thin cold starch before drying.

Japan's Production of Fans

FANS to the number of 11,000,000 are exported annually from Japan. In the days before Japan won for itself its present prominence among the nations of the world the total number of fans produced seldom exceeded 10,000 a year.

The Japanese fan is sometimes not quite the innocent thing it is generally regarded. It is sometimes made to serve as a weapon. A specimen of this character recently came into the possession of the present writer. Substantial rods of iron enter into its construction, and though a fan in appearance, it can do good service in one's personal defense if occasion should arise, pretty much like the innocent-looking sword stick, with which most people are more or less familiar, would do.

More familiar is the trick fan, which when opened by the unwary holder apparently falls to pieces in his hand.

As a marketable product, little store was set by the fan before the advent of the foreigner into the quaint Land of the Rising Sun. Its value in money was extremely trifling. But contact with western civilization and wealth resulted in the production of fans of high price, some being made to special order at about $25 apiece. The cities of Osaka and Kyoto are the chief seats of the fan industry for export.

The bamboo ribs of the fans are made by the people in their own homes. A finishing workman forming the handles according to plans furnished by the designer. The designer gives out to the engravers the patterns that he thinks will be saleable, and when the blocks have been cut, some being made to special order for each part of the design and what different sheets are to be used for the opposite sides of the fan. These sheets, with the sets of bamboo slips which are to form the ribs, have been handed over to the workman, says an official report, "he, in the first instance, folds them so that they will retain the creases. This is done by putting them between two pieces of paper, and then, when they are properly creased, the fans are then folded up together and placed under pressure.

When sufficient time has elapsed the sheets are taken out and the molds used again, the released sheets being packed up for at least twenty-four hours in their folds. The ribs, which are temporarily arranged in order on a wire, are then taken and set into their places on one of the sheets, after it has been spread out on a block and pasted. A dash of paste then gives the woodwork adhesive powers, and that part of the process is finished by affixing the remaining piece of paper.

"The fan is folded up and opened three or four times before the folds get into proper shape, and by the time it is put by to dry it has received an amount of handling Japanese paper alone would endure. When the ladies use the fan, the pieces (covering) is rapidly done, and a dash of varnish quickly finishes the fan."

A Pleasant Voice

WOULD you have a voice that is musical and pleasing? Americans should listen while a foreigner talks and then compare their voices with the soft sounds of the people of other lands. Practically all sweet tones that are possible to every one, if but a little time be taken to give the voice a musical intonation. The habit will grow, like most habits, and reward the one who has devoted her thought to it.

One must start in youth and be on the watch night and day, while at work and while at play, to get and keep a voice which shall speak at all times the thought of a kind heart.

But this is the time when a sharp voice is more apt to be acquired. You often hear boys and girls say words at play with a quick, sharp tone, almost like the snap of a whip. If one of them is vexed you hear a voice which sounds as if it were made up of a snarl, a whine and a bark.

Such a voice often speaks worse than the heart feels. It shows more ill-will in tone than in words. It is often in mischief that one gets a voice or tone which is sharp, and which stays with him through life. Some people have a sharp voice for voice, and keep their best voice for those they meet elsewhere. Use your best voice at home. Watch it by day as a pearl of great price, for it will be worth more to you in the days to come than the best pearl hid in the sea.

Worth Noting

IF A SPOT of machine oil should fall on white silk when machine stitching, a little bread should be crumbled immediately over the top of it.

To renew gilt frames which have become dull and lusterless, a paste should be made of spirits of wine and whiting and laid over the gilding. This must be left until it has dried into a cake, when it can easily be brushed off and the gilt polished.

When using a lemon in the kitchen for darning purposes it is an excellent plan to heat it before cutting it in half. It may be placed in the oven for a few moments or held on the plate rack over a fire. When squeezed the juice will run far more readily than if it were cold.

Old pieces of velvet are invaluable on cleaning day. They are especially soft, and give an excellent polish to woodwork or glass, while they can be washed over and over again.

Should a hot dish have been placed on a highly polished table so that a white mark is the result, a little rock oil and sand should be procured without delay. These must be spread over the place and left for an hour or two, after which the stain should have disappeared. If a stain or line has been rubbed into the grain of the wood above it an appearance of age.

Bringing Air Into the House

WHY don't women appreciate the value of good fresh air? Not only women, of course, men are just as bad; but it is of the housekeeper that I chiefly speak.

"I shall never forget," said a young nurse to me, "the shock I received when I found so many of my fellow students at the training school actually had to be taught how to make and air a bed. Their idea of airing was to turn the covers back for a few minutes and open the window."

And so it is the idea of many of us. Whereas the covers should be taken completely off the bed and spread over two chairs by the window, the pillows should each occupy another chair and the mattress should be turned back. Every window in the room should be opened; in fact, the windows should never be closed except on the coldest of days and when a storm would drive the rain in through them.

Again at night the clothes should not be allowed to lie in a heap where they have fallen or carelessly thrown over the back of a chair, but the different garments should be well separated and hung where the night air—which, contrary to popular superstition, is beneficial and not injurious—will blow on them. A clothesline near the window is best. The clothing nearest the skin and wet with perspiration must be most thoroughly dried (and, of course, changed most frequently).

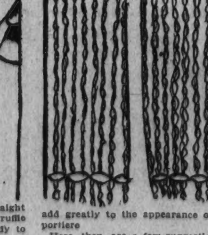

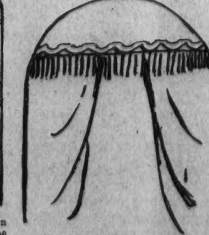

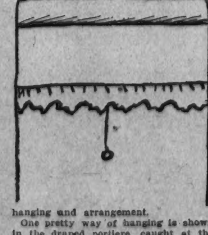

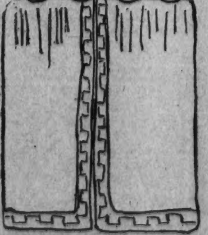

It is a good plan to leave closet doors open all night and until the room is arranged in the morning. Pleated clothes seldom get a breath of the fresh air that means cleanliness and health and contains and surrounds. Heavy quilts, etc., should be hung out of the windows; if in a front room, hang them from one of the windows at the back. But better a neighbor's comments than lack of plenty of good, clean air.

Do as much of your work as possible outdoors, or with doors and windows wide open. Even in the winter, frothing and washing can be done in this way.

One pretty way of hanging is shown in the draped portiere, caught at the side in a stiff tassel and hanging below the cross drapery in straight folds. This is good in a heavy brocade or rep curtain.

For a round door, the transom effect, straightly across the top of the door and ending in a fringe, is very effective. The rest of the curtain falls in a loose drapery on either side of the door.

Where there are folding doors that are sometimes in use, the portiere must be hung on every side. In a bordered material, the straight colonial hanging is quaint and attractive. The curtains may be tacked aside in the middle or at each end without trouble, and yet the general effect is of a straight curtain. With a light curtain of lace or dimity, the shade effect looks well in a narrow doorway. Simply wind the straight curtain upon a roller, provide a ruffle and cord, and there you are, ready to raise your portiere up or down at will.

The great trouble with the lead or string portieres is the way the uncaught strings loop around and get broken by sticking and tearing. If you will divide your lead portiere in two and fasten either in a fringe, the bottom by means of a twisted band of silk cord or a wide band of heavy cord, you will have no further annoyance, and will, besides, add greatly to the appearance of your portiere.

Here, then, are a few suggestions for the hanging of the fall portiere: many more will occur to the housewife who has cleaned and mended her winter curtains and is now sitting in the store-room wondering how she can so alter their looks as to make her friends say when they see her renovated glory: "What day did you ever get your pretty new portiere?"

More than fifty couples danced to the music provided by the Orchestra boys, continuing until the early morning hours. The orchestra had recently received a new collection of music and some of the selections, although strange to some, were nevertheless greatly enjoyed by those present. Dances of this kind, sponsored by a capable management, are certain of meeting with success as that given on Friday last.
